SOURCE:

1. NII 49 is located in Leningrad. It is a part of the Soviet Ministry for Shipbuilding Industry. The German specialists there were organized in a loose group under Dr. Klaritskiy, a Soviet, and Dipl. Ing. Mummert, a German. The organization chart (see page 2) contains a diagram of the organization of NII 49, [REDACTED]. There may have been as many as 13 laboratories, since I heard the words "Laboratory 13" at one time during my stay in the Institute; however, laboratory numbers were changed frequently. The Germans were well isolated from the activity of the estimated 3,000 Soviet employees of NII 49, [REDACTED].¹ The activity at NII 49 is based on hearsay and fleeting observation.
